there has been a change in the situation of the Yugoslavian Legation in Warsaw. Earlier it was watched by the police and its members were under surveillance. Police supervision has now been withdrawn. Legation personnel associate with Polish government circles, and contacts appear to be frequent. On the Yugoslav side it is said that they are trying to have released a number of Yugoslavs who were sentenced for espionage in 1948 and 1949. On the Polish side a revision of the trade treaty is talked about. Exchange trips between the two countries for young people are planned for this summer.
